RUMANIAN MONARCH YIELDS TO DEMANDS OF MILITARY REGIME

Dethroned Sovereign Flees Country to Join Red-Headed Magda Lupescu in Exile; Eighteen-Year Old Offspring Mihai Takes Over as Disordered Ruler in Capital With Iron Guards Roving the City Beating Jews; Princess Helen, Mother of New Ruler Arrives; Border Clashes With Hungarians Continue

By ROBERT ST. JOHN
Associated Press Foreign Writer

Bucharest, Sept. 6.—(P)—King Carol II, yielding to demands of Rumania's new military dictatorship and riotous clamor in the streets, abdicated today in favor of his 18-year-old son Mihai and fled into exile aboard the royal yacht.

Reported with him was red-haired Magda Lupescu, his associate more than a decade ago when he relinquished his throne for gay Paris exile and let Prince Mihai reign as child monarch under a regency.

The destination of the royal yacht which sailed into the Black Sea from Constanta was not known. The King boarded it after secret departure from Bucharest by special train.

Back of him in troubled, dismembered Rumania Carol left his son as the front of an Axis-aligned military dictatorship which already had started a wholesale roundup of important political figures in Carol's decade of power.

Carol was reported to have fled to Switzerland as wildly enthusiastic demonstrations over the succession of Mihai swept Bucharest. These crowds during the night had shown violent hostility to the 46-year-old monarch.

Police and gendarmes made no effort to control the situation, in which gangs of the anti-Semitic Iron Guard, now playing a top hand, looted the city beating Jewish shopkeepers who failed to hang pictures of Mihai in their shops.

Princess Helen, divorced wife of the abdicated king, arrived by airplane to be with her son, one of whose first regal acts was said to have been to send for his exiled mother. She was said to have come from Dresden, Germany, but this was not confirmed.

Mihai's first act was to sign dictatorial powers to General Ion Antonescu, the iron-willed army leader who had assumed supreme power only 24 hours before. Gen. Antonescu issued an order that the Rumanian army must take an oath of complete allegiance to King Mihai.

Carol, whose loves and escapades as crown prince earned him a worldwide reputation as a playboy, thus handed back the throne—this time stripped of its authority—to the boy from whom he had taken it in a coup in 1939. Mihai then had ruled for three years as the would-be "boy king."

Carol abdicated at dawn in the presence of Gen. Antonescu as mobs of Fascist Iron Guards—supporters of the dictatorship—rioted in the streets, demanding his abdication and threatening even greater disorders should he decline to step down.

Banishment of Mme. Lupescu, long an enemy of the army and the Iron Guard, was one of the first results of Gen. Antonescu's bloodless coup.

Carol issued a proclamation to his people asking them to support Mihai.

Gen. Antonescu, likewise, in a brief communique, appealed to the public to support Mihai.

It was reported in government circles that dozens of men who were political leaders during Carol's ten-year regime—during which he was an active leader of his government—had been, or would be, arrested by the new dictatorship.

As Carol's monarchy thus collapsed completely, Gen. Antonescu was expected to form a cabinet—he is nominally premier—to include the peasant party leader, Julius Maniu and several liberal leaders who had refused to collaborate with the general until he had forced Carol's abdication.

The abdication itself was a dramatic event, with Carol, worn and haggard, finally giving in to the demands of the military regime.

FULL DICTATORIAL POWERS ARE SIGNED OVER TO GENERAL ANTONESCU, IRON-WILLED LEADER

TUG WITH FIVE MEN IS MISSING IN LAKE ERIE

Erie, Sept. 6.—(P)—The fishing tug Ethel J. carrying a crew of five men was reported missing in Lake Erie today.

The 45-foot craft was due in port about 5 p. m. yesterday after a 24-hour trip to fishing waters some three or four miles out.

The coast guard boat Dix early today started a search for the missing tug. Officials said there was no bad weather on the lake and theorized the Ethel J. either broke down or sank.

Expect New York, New Jersey, Delaware To Furnish Largest Quota in First Draft

Washington, Sept. 6.—(P)—The Second Corps area, embracing New York, New Jersey and Delaware, would furnish largest quota of the first 400,000 military trainees under the Senate version of the Burke-Wadsworth selective service bill calling out men from 21 to 30, inclusive.

Defense officials emphasized that any quota estimated by corps areas and states at this time must necessarily be rough and subject to sharp change, but tentative figures for the Second Corps area showed 67,481 men—New York, 43,530, New Jersey 12,584 and Delaware, 767.

These estimates do not take into account revisions which must be made to take care of men needed in defense industry and farming, nor credits to be given states for voluntary enlistments beyond state quotas for such enlistments.

Estimates by states, based largely on a division of the 400,000 men that it has been indicated would be called among the states on a basis of early census figures, showed these tentative quotas before offsets to meet changing conditions, included:

Pennsylvania, 28,711; West Virginia, 5,393.

WALLACE USING AUTO IN TOUR OF THE CORN BELT

By DON HYNDMAN
Springfield, Ill., Sept. 6.—(P)—Henry A. Wallace is stumping the corn belt in informal fashion.

Without fanfare, the Democratic vice presidential nominee is moving around Illinois by automobile, making speeches in the smaller agricultural communities, meeting the local party leaders and chatting intimately with farmers about the coming harvest.

No special trade is needed to accommodate his entourage, no motor corps carry his baggage beyond the fringes of the crowds of 1,000 to 4,000 that have turned out to hear him. All his speeches are extemporaneous, and everything else about the tour shows a lack of publicity.

PLANE OUTPUT IS INCREASING

Washington, Sept. 6.—(P)—Decline in output of aircraft and bombers due to the navy will reach a low of more than 100 a month early in 1941, an official statement showed today.

That rate includes only combat-type planes for which formal contracts have been signed. It does not include the many aircraft contracted for later, not training, experimental and utility planes.

Delivery dates, hitherto withheld as military secrets, were disclosed in a navy schedule inserted in a congressional record by Rep. Charles McNary (D-Ind.), chairman of the House naval committee.

In the same table, the navy disclosed that it had reached agreements, pending contracts, with

Declares Costa Rica And Ecuador Are Working in Complete Accord With United States on Proposals for Fortifying Hemisphere But Adds No Negotiations For Acquisition of Additional Bases Are Under Way

CANADA IS SEEKING OBSOLETE EQUIPMENT

Washington, Sept. 6.—(P)—President Roosevelt said today that Costa Rica and Ecuador were cooperating completely with the United States in plans for defense of the Americas, but he added that no negotiations for acquisition of additional naval and air bases were now under way with any country.

Asked about reports that Costa Rica had offered to this country Cocon Island, about 600 miles northwest of the Panama Canal in the Pacific, for a base, the president replied that all he could say on that was that there was complete cooperation between Costa Rica and the United States in the defense of the Americas.

Another question at Mr. Roosevelt's press conference was whether the Galapagos Islands, about 1,000 miles southwest of the canal, were involved in talks with Ecuador. He made the same reply, namely, that Ecuador was working with this country on continental defense.

Mr. Roosevelt emphasized, however, that there were no negotiations on at all to acquire bases other than those granted by Great Britain on eight of its crown colonies from Newfoundland to British Guiana in exchange for 50 over-age destroyers.

Prior to the president's meeting with the press, it was learned that Canada was seeking several hundred obsolete World War tanks and large quantities of military supplies from the United States.

The disclosure that negotiations were in progress was made yesterday by General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, chairman of the American section of the joint U. S.-Canadian defense board.

The chief of staff said he looked

Bucharest, Sept. 6.—(P)—Government circles reported today that Carol in exile would receive an annual "pension" equal to $60,000.

Close associates of Gen. Antonescu, the new dictator, said there was long debate at the palace during the night over Carol's demand for a financial settlement.

An annual payment was decided on, it was said, but Carol likely will be dispossessed of much of his extensive property holdings in Rumania. He was reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in Europe.

Rome, Sept. 6.—(P)—Italian airmen struck back at Britain, the High Command announced today, with a raking fire of air raids on her "lifeline" from the central Mediterranean to the Indian ocean.

In apparent retaliation for British bombardments in the Dodecanese Islands, the High Command reported a dive bombing attack which "virtually destroyed" the fortress of Delia Mara at Malta, four steamers damaged in attacks on convoys in the Mediterranean and Red Sea, gasoline depots fired in the first attack of the war on Suva, and a bombing of ships in the harbor at Aden.

Besides these attempts to disrupt British shipping, attacks were carried out in the Sudan and Egypt.

CHILDREN IN HOME MENACED BY BLAZE

Wendelsdorf, Sept. 6.—(P)—Fire which threatened 265 children of the Bethany orphan home, today destroyed the six brick and frame buildings of the Allegheny Chemical Corporation at a loss which officials of the company estimated at $100,000.

In the worst conflagration of the town's history, the flames swept through the brick and frame buildings in which paint and insecticides are manufactured while 450 firemen from volunteer companies fought to prevent them spreading to the orphanage a block away.

Superintendent H. T. Moore of the paint company said two men were in the building when they discovered the flames in the paint department two feet advanced to do much about them. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

Harrisburg, Sept. 6.—(P)—The state will start work several million dollars that had been laid aside for WPA projects, and use the money for resurfacing and reconstruction of the so-called "pinch roads" this fall, Governor James announced.

The roads are those in rural districts that were given a coating of asphalt and macadam during the second administration of former Governor Gifford Pinchot to "take the farmer out of the mud."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—(P)—The House refused twice today to change the registration age limit of 21 to 18, inclusive, in the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill. Washington, Sept. 6.—(P)—President Roosevelt renewed today his plea for speedy congressional action on conscription, and the defense tax and appropriation bills, but declined comment on the House vote to delay actual drafting of men for a 60-day period of volunteer recruiting.

Owlett came here from Willkie's conference with party leaders from 22 states and the District of Columbia.

DEMO CHAIRMAN OUTLINES PLANS FOR ACTIVE DRIVE

Harrisburg, Sept. 6.—(P)—Democratic county chairman, rounding out plans for the November 5 election, are reported by State Chairman Meredith Meyers to be "confident not only of carrying Democratic districts by larger majorities than before but also of making heavy inroads in normally Republican territory."

"There is no precinct in the entire state where careful canvasses does not indicate at least as large a Democratic majority as in 1936, when Roosevelt carried Pennsylvania by more than 600,000 votes," the party leader declared in a statement last night.

Banished Ruler Will Receive $60,000 Year

Bucharest, Sept. 6.—(P)—Government circles reported today that Carol in exile would receive an annual "pension" equal to $60,000.

Close associates of Gen. Antonescu, the new dictator-premier, said there was long debate at the palace during the night over Carol's demand for a financial settlement.

An annual payment was decided on, it was said, but Carol likely will be disappointed of much of his extensive property holdings in Rumania. He was reputed to be one of the wealthiest men in Europe.

Washington, Sept. 6.—(P)—The House refused twice today to change the registration age limit of 21 to 14, inclusive, in the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military training bill.

On a voter vote, Representative Rees (R-Kan.) lost in an effort to broaden the spread to include men from 21 to 54, inclusive, and Representative Anderson (D-Mo.) was defeated, 161 to 47, in an attempt to make the brackets conform to the Senate's figures of 21 to 30, inclusive.

Washington, Sept. 6.—(P)—President Roosevelt renewed today his plea for speedy congressional action on conscription, the defense tax and appropriation bills, but declined comment on the House vote to delay actual drafting of men for a 60-day period of volunteer recruiting.

G. O. P. CANDIDATE IS COMING TO THIS STATE

Rushville, Ind., Sept. 6.—(P)—G. Mason Owlett, Republican committeeman from Pennsylvania, announced Presidential Nominee Wendell Willkie has agreed to speak in Harrisburg, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, "some time in October."

He predicted Willkie would carry the Keystone state by 500,000 votes and declared:

"We have laid the ground work for intensive campaign and every one in the organization is cooperating 100 per cent."

Owlett came here from Willkie's conference with party leaders from 22 states and the District of Columbia.

Another Pennsylvania, Mrs. Worthington Scranton, said the state would go overwhelmingly for Willkie and quoted the candidate as saying he desired to give proper recognition to Republican organization.

In the worst conflagration of the town's history, the flames swept through the brick and frame buildings in which paint and insecticides are manufactured while 450 firemen from volunteer companies of seven communities fought to prevent them spreading to the orphanage a block away.

Superintendent H. T. Moore of the paint company said two men were in the building when they discovered the flames in the paint department too far advanced to do much about them. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

Womelsdorf, Sept. 6.—(P)—Fire which threatened 255 children of the Bethany orphan home, today destroyed the six brick and frame buildings of the Allegheny Chemical Corporation at a loss which officials of the company estimated at $100,000.

LONGEST NIGHT RAID IS STAGED

Arriving Wave on Wave in Formations Too Thick to Count, Hitler's Warplanes Launch Mightier Assaults Than Ever Against Britain as R. A. F. Fliers Fight Desperately to Fend Off Attacks on Airdromes

BERLINERS ARE AGAIN DRIVEN INTO SHELTERS

BULLETIN
Berlin, Sept. 6.—(P)—Two formations of German planes bombed hangars and airplane works at Henley and Weybridge today, German sources said, leaving 14 of their own number downed, but reporting 35 British planes shot down. Four hangars and 10 planes at Weybridge were said to have been hit by midweight bombs, while at Henley hits were scored on runways as well as the south side of the field. Henley and Weybridge are both west of London, Henley, on the Thames, being the scene of big croquet races.

By the Associated Press
London, Sept. 6.—(P)—Coming wave on wave in formations too thick to count, Adolf Hitler's warplanes today launched mightier assaults than ever against Britain after the worst night of the war, and engaged in a series of non-stop battles all over the London area and southeastern England.

To meet the onslaught, masses of British fighters took to the skies, setting upon at least one formation of 200 bombers and battle planes and fending off bomb attacks on airports in the London area.

Battles were raging in fully half a dozen areas of southeastern England, and the Air Ministry said at least 28 German planes had been shot down in the fighting before noon.

The London area had its third alarm of the day at 12:55 P. M. (6:55 A. M. EST) after the longest night raid of the war—seven hours and 33 minutes in which (Turn to Page Nine)

Anti-Conscription Forces Demonstrate

Washington, Sept. 6.—(P)—A milling, chanting crowd of anti-conscription demonstrators, who changed their chorus to screams and shouts when police took charge, was pushed off the Capitol grounds last night.

The Rev. Owen Knox, who said he was pastor of the Bethlehem Methodist church in Detroit, told police he wanted to conduct a prayer meeting as a protest against the conscription bill. Officers said that an 1882 law forbade any demonstration at the Capitol without a permit.

Knox and five others were taken in custody by police, but released after being questioned.

FOUR BEHEADED
Berlin, Sept. 6.—(P)—Four men whom the people's court had convicted of high treason and espionage were beheaded today. They were Wilhelm Busson, 48, Josef Kaiser, 50, Rudolf Worm, 31, Karl Zink, 30.

Discover Source
Of Contamination
Of The Brokenstraw

Announcement was made yesterday by Fish Warden R. C. Bailey, of Youngsville, that the source of the contamination of Brokenstraw creek, which resulted in the killing of all fish life from Corry to a point west of Pittsfield, has been established.

The cause will not be made public for some time, pending a conference between game and fish officials and the responsible parties on the possible damages.

It is fairly well established that a Corry factory is responsible, and state authorities are expected to press that city into the erection of a city disposal plant to prevent the recurrence of the pollution which not only killed fish life and some game, but also threatened humans.

AIRPORT NEWS

The local field has been busy the last few days again after a spell of poor weather. Wednesday saw two more fledglings take the air for the first time. Miss Dorothy Miller made her first solo flight in the afternoon. Dorothy has the distinction of having the least number of flight instruction hours of any girl yet to solo at the Warren Airport, and does a very nice job of flying. In the afternoon Sam Galluch of Johnsonburg made his first solo flight. Sam has been handicapped in not living near the school and in only being able to fly a few minutes each week but he soloed in a little over the minimum required dual period.

Fred Schuler bought a Cub coupe today and has been giving it quite a work out. He says he likes it better than the trainer model because he can sit on the captain's side of the ship.

Dr. Casler has been flying quite extensively having soloed last week. He is now the owner of a forty-horse Cub also.

Everyone is glad to see Pauline
Green back at the Airport again

"The Pennsylvania businessman who sent letters to his employees suggesting that they make small contributions for the Wilkie campaign may be within his constitutional rights in doing so. But the alleged legality of an action of this kind does not excuse it. For despite the employer's assurances that his request carried no threat or compulsion to contribute, the mere act of solicitation would doubtless be regarded by some employees as equivalent to a command. The employee is only theoretically a free agent when confronted by "suggestions" of this sort. Rather than risk the displeasure of his superior and possible loss of his job, the average worker would prefer to lay down cash, regardless of his political views. . . . Safeguards to protect private employees against concealed coercion may become necessary if large numbers of employers should decide to act as self-appointed solicitors of campaign donations for their favorite candidates."—Washington Post (Rep.)

The ancient Chinese prized iron so highly that it was sold in the market places along with soft silks and fine furs.

The Republican party has confidence in America. The New Deal has not. The Republican party believes that free men under a system of free enterprise can make America strong for defense and healthily prosperous. This party believes that the American people can act without restraint or compulsion.

The New Deal believes in regulation and regimentation. It believes that free men are either too evil or too foolish to govern themselves. It has set up board after board and commission after commission to make rules and to give orders. It has no respect for the abilities or the responsibilities of the American people. It would arrogate to itself the care and the cure of all the real or fancied ills that beset society. It has the utmost contempt for the idea that America might cure itself. Instead it seeks to force down the throats of the people a defeatist philosophy, as excuse for its own colossal failure.

The Republican party, on the other hand, stands for progress instead of a planned perfection which is perfect in name only. It believes that there will always be problems to face and that a free people can face them and solve them. To this party freedom and democracy are not goals; they are tools with which individuals may work in a constructive and cooperative endeavor. The Republican party is not afraid.

The New Dealers are not only afraid; they are in a panic. They know that their seven and one-half years of extravagant rainbow chasing have been a miserable failure. Now they begin to see that the American people were not quite so easy to hoodwink as they supposed. The free American gave the New Deal its chance, but instead of growing still and docile under a regime of "bread and circuses," the American citizen began to grow impatient. Now he begins to show unmistakable signs of a willingness to bite Santa Claus.

So the New Deal has stopped focusing on domestic issues. It has leaped, with an outstanding suddenness, into the world crisis. It began seven years too late, to defend America. The loud cries of the New Dealers are no longer sweet; they have the same old ring. Once they were, "Give up your liberty so that we can give you security." Now they say, "Give up your liberty so that we can give you defense." It doesn't sound right in American ears. The American people are not the dumb peasants that the New Dealers believe them to be. They know that no one can give them security and that no one can give them defense; these things must be worked for and won by free individuals. That is the American way.

Goal for Warren General Hospital Financial Campaign Is $50,000; General Drive Starts Sept. 30th

A goal of $50,000 has been set for the financial campaign for the benefit of the Warren General Hospital, which will get under way soon, it was announced today by Peter E. Nelson, treasurer of the board of directors of the hospital.

Preliminary plans for the campaign are now under way and further details will be announced from day to day.

Although some solicitation will take place earlier, the general drive for funds is scheduled to open Monday, September 30, and close October 4.

Of the total amount to be raised, Mr. Nelson pointed out, approximately $22,000 will be used to cover a present deficit, $12,000 will meet the deficit expected to be incurred within the next two years and the balance will be used to provide necessary equipment for the hospital.

The present deficit, it was stated, includes approximately $12,000 owed to local merchants who have been "holding the bag" until the raising of funds was possible, and an additional $10,000 in notes payable.

"While the operating costs of the Warren General Hospital are lower than for most hospitals of similar size and standards," Mr. Nelson said today, it has been impossible to avoid an operating deficit on account of the large amount of free service necessarily rendered, and also due to the fact that the facilities of the hospital must be continually improved and enlarged. In the past five years an addition has been added to the main building and extensive repairs have been made to the hospital plant generally.

"It is the aim of the Warren General Hospital to render the best hospital service possible to the community at the most reasonable cost. To attain this end it is necessary to keep our hospital modern in all its facilities and equipment.

"The directors and management of the hospital scrutinize all expenditures very carefully, as is indicated by the fact, before stated, that our maintenance costs are below the average. It is reasonable to expect that further economies can be effected through certain improvements that will be made from the funds obtained in the present campaign.

"Because of the generosity and support of our community, we have a hospital in Warren of which we can be justly proud. The success of the present campaign will assure a still more extended and efficient service on the part of the hospital to our town and county."

SOFT SMOOTH FABRICS SEEN IN FALL COSTUMES

It's time for fall costumes to make their appearance, especially when days are cool and evenings are a bit chilly.

The slender silhouette marks the new fall clothes, says Mrs. Thelma Prendergast, home economics extension representative, Warren County. Trim waistlines and hips with gently flaring skirt lines are points worth noting.

This year the front of the dress carries all the interest, backs are severely plain. Pockets are popular, but they do not detract from the slender silhouette.

The first woolen ensembles are essentially tailored in outline but with much interest in detail of finish. Every costume has some special feature, she explains. It may be draping or folds of the fabric, or it may be in tucking. A variation of tucking is soft tucking which gives a soft blistered effect. Fine finishing details demand smooth soft fabrics which lend themselves to ease in handling. This accounts for the popularity of plain, flat crepes in rayon, silk, and wool.

For several seasons, dress fabrics have been characterized by much surface interest. This fall there's a return of the fine simple crepes.

Other favorites are Roshanara crepe—a heavy corded crepe fabric, and duvety, its exact opposite—soft and velvety to the touch. Jersey weaves in wool, rayon, and silk are used for practically every type of costume from coat linings to wedding dresses. Satin is combined with other fabrics.

Velvet has returned as a trimming, and of all textures, velvet is most flattering. Velvet is used for belts, collars, and cuffs, jacket revers, pockets, ruchings, or even a whole bodice front.

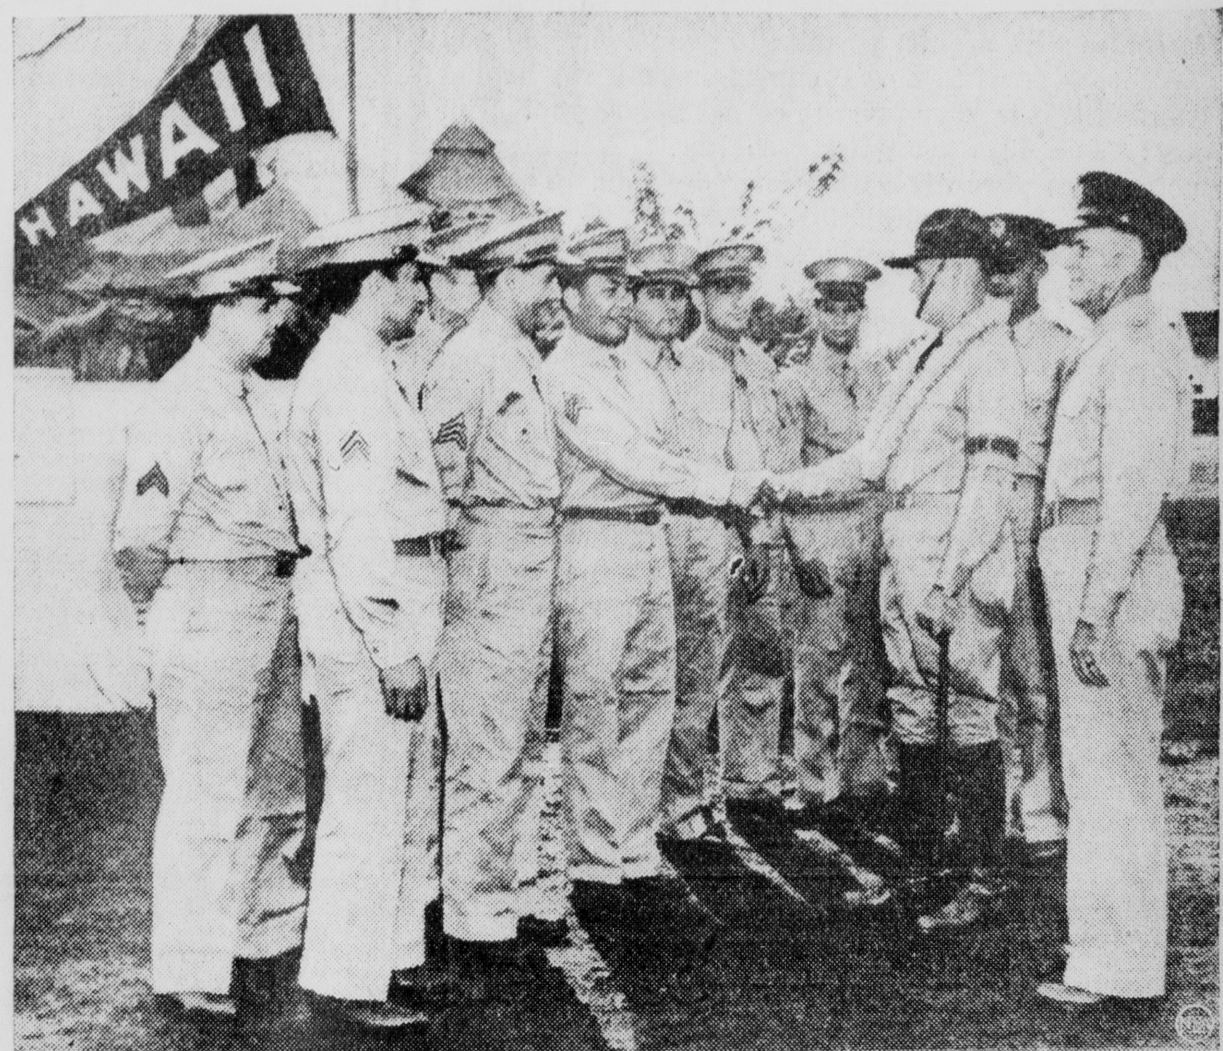

There is much combining of different textures of the same color. For example, satin with crepe, or a boucle of wool with a smooth one.

Embroidery, done in matching color yarn, is popular for decorating daytime dresses.

The wool ensemble, consisting of dress with matching jacket, is a practical first fall costume, believes Mrs. Prendergast. It is also a very smart costume.

An old Gothic name meaning "Father Wolf," is the source of the name "Adolf."

FIFTY DESTROYERS—AND THEN?

Willis Thornton, in an editorial written for the Newspaper Enterprise Association and the Times-Mirror, sums up the situation resulting from the trade negotiations between United States and Britain as follows:

The transfer of 50 destroyers to Britain is, as the President said, a fait accompli, which is fancy French for something definitely completed.

Is the transaction complete?

That's more important than the thing itself. As a horse-trade, even the President's most vociferous opponents have to admit it's a good one. The screen of naval bases in the Atlantic should be better protection in one year than all the ships which could be built in five. The destroyers themselves will not notably weaken present naval strength. Militarily, we gain.

It seems unlikely that the attitude of either Germany or Japan toward the United States will change as a result. Both are complete realists in foreign policy; we believe both will tend to respect another country's being equally realistic. Surely no accusation that "this is war" can come with any force either from a country which sent not only material but crack troops into Spain (denying it was war) or from one which after three years of big-time campaigning in China still insists it is not at war. If there are new conceptions abroad in the world of what a country can do and yet not be at war, those conceptions are not of our making.

Nor is the point of legalistic hair-splitting too important. There is still the gravest doubt that Jefferson had any constitutional warrant to buy Louisiana, yet nobody today suggests that he shouldn't have acted, and acted as he did, personally and promptly. The customary opportunity to repudiate this policy if the country feels that way, will be open at the polls in November; an opportunity not perhaps to rescind this action, but to check any further progress along the same path.

That is what is important. Have we, by definite promise or by implication, committed the United States to further aid to Britain? The President should be specific about this.

As the American people understand it, we are not so committed. Britain should clearly understand that the American people are not conscious of any further obligation resulting from, or depending on, this deal. It would be shameful to allow them to count on anything else, then feel that they had been "let down" if it was not forthcoming.

SHORTER DAYS

(From the Valley Daily News, Tarentum)

The sun moves southward before the birds, and the days get shorter. But there can be as much joy in a short day as in a long one—more, perhaps; eternity is no respecter of seasons. Like the shadows that come earlier in the declining sunlight, thoughts grow longer.

The not-quite-unexpected twilight is no intruder. It comes with a quiet promise to your door, and you take it inside with you. It climbs the stairway behind you but it is in your favorite corner before you. You say: "The days are getting shorter." Yet they do not end so abruptly as the long days do. There is more time for recapitulation. Early afternoon seems farther away in an early dusk than in a late one. It is a matter of tempo, not of time.

Summer days are full of music. They are veritable pieces of music. There were birds this morning; brooks at noon, or a fountain in a public garden; then the chatter of squirrels or of children; and birds again. If you have just heard loved music, do you jump up at the last beat and make for the check-room? Probably you don't even break into immediate applause. For you want the moment that follows—that still moment, that tiny twilight of silence just after the flaming sound. So it is with days.

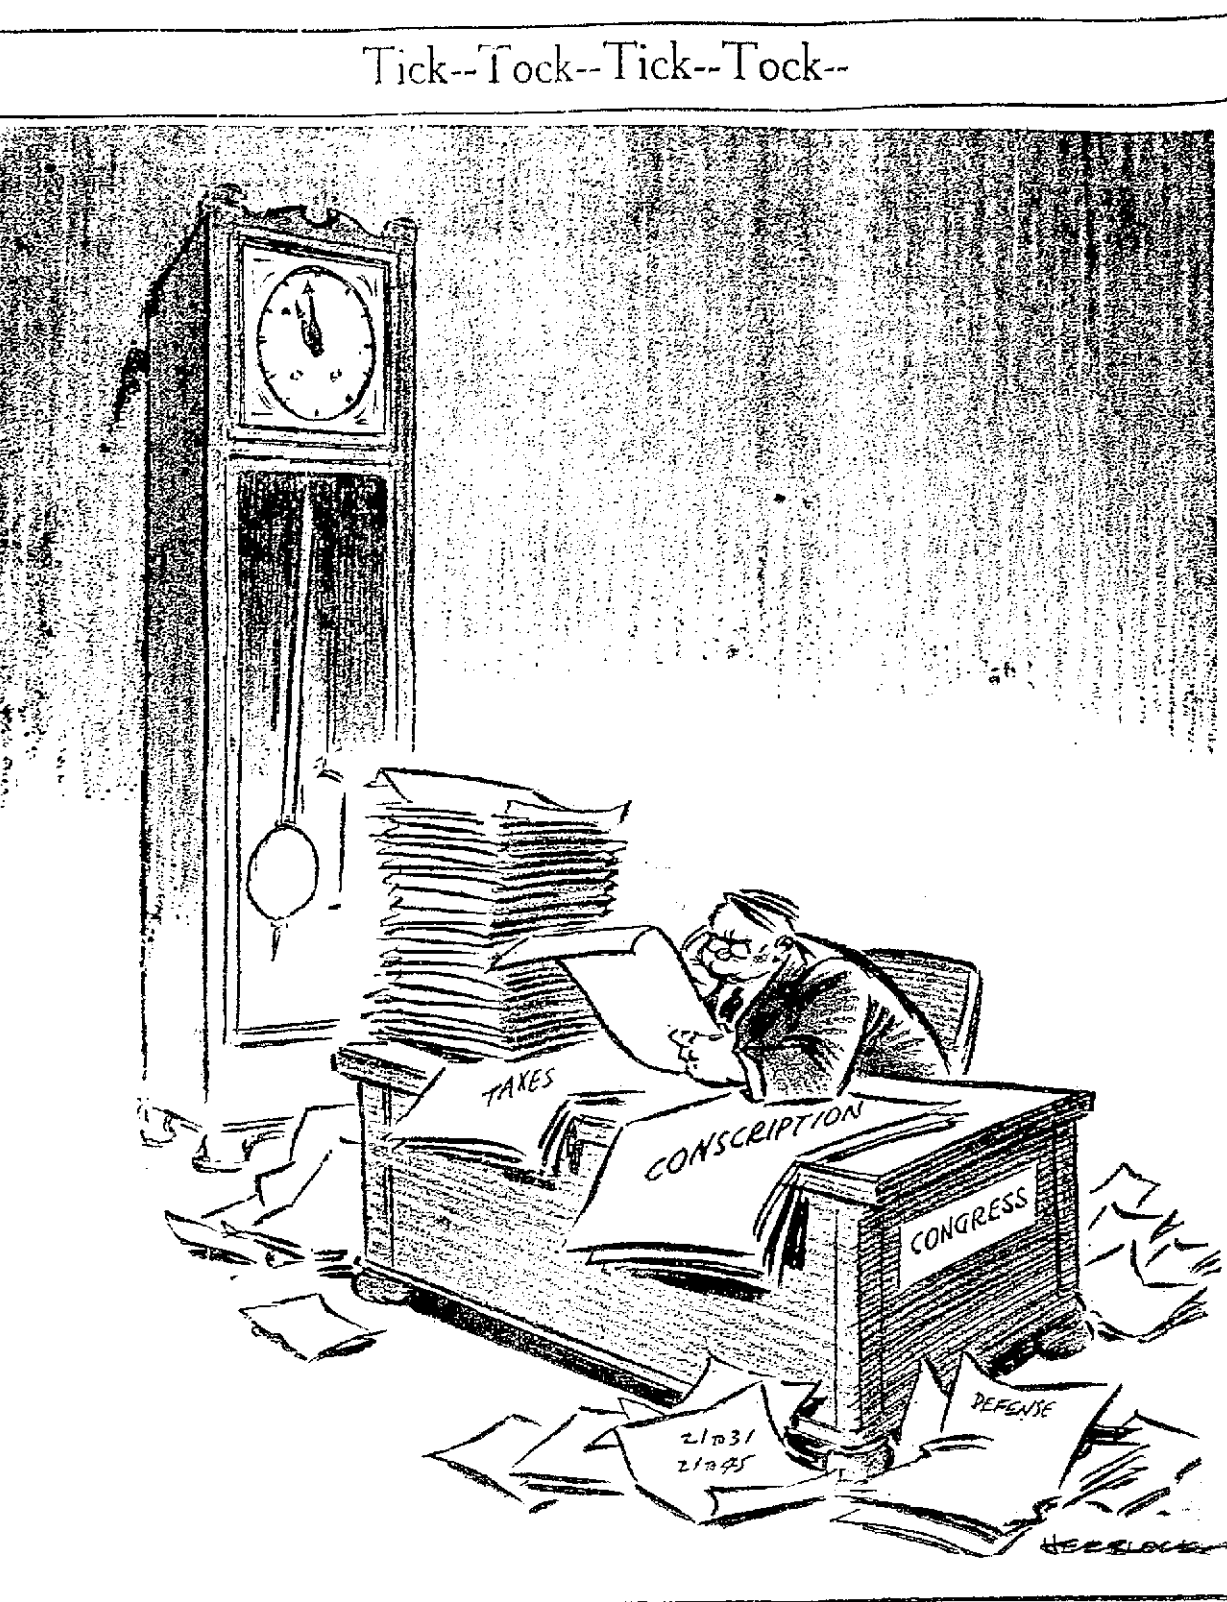

If you enjoy the beauties of nature, especially in flowers and vegetables, you will not fail to attend the 15th annual exhibition at the Warren National Bank tomorrow!

It appears that King Carol has lost his throne but he still has his red head.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Already they are speaking of the "old" International Casino, when actually it isn't old at all. It is only a couple years old, maybe three at the most. But it is old in the Broadway sense, which has nothing to do with time, because it has outlived its usefulness and will now be converted into what is said will be the largest store in the world. Bonds is taking over the "old" show house and will transform it into a department store this fall.

The International Casino, a gaudy white elephant of the Hollywood type, was the last great gesture in the direction of the idea that you had to have a tobacco warehouse for a night club. It was a dismal flop. Most of the time it has been idle. Clifford C. Fischer, with his lavish Parisian revues, was unable to give it the warmth and intimacy which are essential to success on Broadway. It was vast in the sense that all outdoors is vast. It had a winding stairway and a bar that wound all the way downstairs with it, so that you could stop and refresh yourself if you got tired on the way down. It was operated on the cabaret-restaurant idea—that is, dine and have a chorus girl show of a hundred femmes while you ate. It had glittering escalators to carry you upstairs. It had three orchestras and a uniformed staff all the way downstairs with you. But that wasn't enough. The International Casino, as everyone knows now, is truly dead. It was dead the night it opened. The trouble is that sometimes it takes Broadway a long time to find things out.

BUT what I really wanted to say about the old International Casino, in dropping a ploy on its bier, is that its site is truly one of the most famous in all New York.

This is on Broadway between 44th and 45th, and it has been a celebrated and famous site, redolent with glamorous and sentimental memories, ever since the late Oscar Hammerstein dedicated his Olympia Theater there in 1895. That was really the beginning of Times Square as a theatrical center. It marked the first northward urge of the show houses. After Hammerstein's Olympia came the Music Hall, theaters, all of which existed for a while on the same site and gave their names to the history of nightlife in New York.

Among the old, long-remembered shows that delighted New York were "When Knighthood Was in Flower" and the "Primrose and West" minstrels. Maude Adams played there in "The Little Minister" and in "The Girl From Maxim's." Later Lionel, Ethel, and John Barrymore, singly and, on one occasion all together, trod those boards. It was the only time the famous Barrymores ever appeared on the same stage in New York. The first Ziegfeld Follies was shown there too, for by that time the place was known as the New York Roof. The site also served for the first American appearance of Sir Harry Lauder.

BUT all that is gone now, washed down the drain along with an older and perhaps more gracious era than the one we know now. Into its place will come labarets and negligees, sports jackets and electric toasters. Yet all will not be completely lost. Even in department stores, if you know where to look, you can find sales girls who look like Hedy Lamarr one week and Ann Sheridan the next. Even in department stores you can still find Mickey Mouse soap, and men's shirts with Barrymore collars.

CRANIUM CRACKERS

SOME ARMAMENT TERMS

The United States is engaged in the greatest defense program in its history. How many of these questions about armament can you answer?

1. What is a howitzer?
2. How large, in inches, is the shell thrown by a 75-mm gun?
3. Which is the larger ship, a cruiser or a destroyer?
4. About how many battleships has the United States?
5. What is a mine sweeper?

STORIES IN STAMPS

Stamps Advertise National Products

A COLLECTION of stamps propagandizing a national industry or product offers the philatelist a wide field for specialization. Latvia's stamp, above, picturing an apple, is typical of these advertising issues. This stamp was one of a set of two designs commemorating the eighth annual agricultural fair at Riga. Latvia's stamps gained interest upon incorporation of the republic into the Soviet Union.

United States advertised fruit, wheat and dairy products in the short-lived parcel post series of 1912. The various commemorative issues honoring expositions, might also be placed in this class.

Cuba recently launched a stamp campaign propagandizing its tobacco industry. The recent Rotary and Lions issues each pictured tobacco plants. Colombia also has a new stamp showing a tobacco plant in bloom.

Argentina's beef, Brazil's coffee, Peru's grapes and Russia's cotton have all appeared in philately's well stocked advertising directory.

FIFTY DESTROYERS—AND THEN?

Willis Thornton, in an editorial written for the Newspaper Enterprise Association and the Times-Mirror, sums up the situation resulting from the trade negotiations between United States and Britain as follows:

The transfer of 50 destroyers to Britain is, as the President said, a fait accompli, which is fancy French for something definitely completed.

Is the transaction complete?

That's more important than the thing itself. As a horse-trade, even the President's most vociferous opponents have to admit it's a good one. The screen of naval bases in the Atlantic should be better protection in one year than all the ships which could be built in five. The destroyers themselves will not notably weaken present naval strength. Militarily, we gain.

It seems unlikely that the attitude of either Germany or Japan toward the United States will change as a result. Both are complete realists in foreign policy; we believe both will tend to respect another country's being equally realistic. Surely no accusation that "this is war" can come with any force either from a country which sent not only material but crack troops into Spain (denying it was war) or from one which after three years of big-time campaigning in China still insists it is not at war. If there are new conceptions abroad in the world of what a country can do and yet not be at war, those conceptions are not of our making.

Nor is the point of legalistic hair-splitting too important. There is still the gravest doubt that Jefferson had any constitutional warrant to buy Louisiana, yet nobody today suggests that he shouldn't have acted, and acted as he did, personally and promptly. The customary opportunity to repudiate this policy if the country feels that way, will be open at the polls in November; an opportunity not perhaps to rescind this action, but to check any further progress along the same path.

That is what is important. Have we, by definite promise or by implication, committed the United States to further aid to Britain? The President should be specific about this.

As the American people understand it, we are not so committed. Britain should clearly understand that the American people are not conscious of any further obligation resulting from, or depending on, this deal. It would be shameful to allow them to count on anything else, then feel that they had been "let down" if it was not forthcoming.

SHORTER DAYS
(From the Valley Daily News, Tarentum)

The sun moves southward before the birds, and the days get shorter. But there can be as much joy in a short day as in a long one—more, perhaps; eternity is no respecter of seasons. Like the shadows that come earlier in the declining sunlight, thoughts grow longer.

The not-quite-unexpected twilight is no intruder. It comes with a quiet promise to your door, and you take it inside with you. It climbs the stairway behind you but it is in your favorite corner before you. You say: "The days are getting shorter." Yet they do not end so abruptly as the long days do. There is more time for recapitulation. Early afternoon seems farther away in an early dusk than in a late one. It is a matter of tempo, not of time.

Summer days are full of music. They are veritable pieces of music. There were birds this morning; brooks at noon, or a fountain in a public garden; then the chatter of squirrels or of children; and birds again. If you have just heard loved music, do you jump up at the last beat and make for the check-room? Probably you don't even break into immediate applause. For you want the moment that follows—that still moment, that tiny twilight of silence just after the flaming sound. So it is with days.

If you enjoy the beauties of nature, especially in flowers and vegetables, you will not fail to attend the 15th annual exhibition at the Warren National Bank tomorrow!

It appears that King Carol has lost his throne but he still has his red head.

T-H-O-U-G-H-T-S

Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God, and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man.—Ecclesiastes 12:13.

Man owes not only his services, but himself to God.—Secker.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Already they are speaking of the "old" International Casino, when actually it isn't old at all. It is only a couple years old, maybe three at the most. But it is old in the Broadway sense, which has nothing to do with time, because it has outlived its usefulness and will now be converted into what is said will be the largest store in the world. Bonds is taking over the "old" show house and will transform it into a department store this fall.

The International Casino, a gaudy white elephant of the Hollywood type, was the last great gesture in the direction of the idea that you had to have a tobacco warehouse for a night club. It was a dismal flop. Most of the time it has been idle. Clifford C. Fischer, with his lavish Parisian revues, was unable to give it the warmth and intimacy which are essential to success on Broadway. It was vast in the sense that all outdoors is vast. It had a winding stairway and a bar that wound all the way downstairs with it, so that you could stop and refresh yourself if you got tired on the way down. It was operated on the cabaret-restaurant idea—that is, dine and have a chorus girl show of a hundred females while you ate. It had glittering escalators to carry you upstairs. It had three orchestras and a uniformed staff of scores to wait upon you. But that wasn't enough. The International Casino, as everyone knows now, is truly dead. It was dead the night it opened. The trouble is that sometimes it takes Broadway a long time to find things out.

BUT what I really wanted to say about the old International Casino, in dropping a posy on its bier, is that its site is truly one of the most famous in New York.

Among the old, long-remembered shows that delighted New Yorkers were "When Knighthood Was in Flower," and the "Primrose and West" minstrels. Maude Adams played there in "The Little Minister" and in "The Girl From Maxims." Later Lionel, Ethel, and John Barrymore, singly and, on one occasion all together, trod those boards. It was the only time the famous Barrymores ever appeared on the same stage in New York. The first Ziegfeld Follies was shown there too, for by that time the place was known as the New York Roof. The site also served for the first American appearance of Sir Harry Lauder.

BUT all that is gone now, washed down the drain along with an older and perhaps more gracious era. The one we know now. Into its place will come tableware and negligees, sports jackets and electric toasters. Yet, all will not be completely lost. Even in department stores, if you know where to look, you can find sales girls who look like Hedy Lamarr one week and Ann Sheridan the next. Even in department stores you can still find Mickey Mouse soap, and men's shirts with Barrymore collars.

With Secretary of Labor W. B. Wilson on the speaker's stand, at 2:45 o'clock Monday afternoon the clouds which had been gathering for several hours previous, let forth a downpour of hail and water that brought to a close the afternoon program, that was to have taken place in Pioneer Park in celebration of Old Home Week.

A meeting of business men was called last night to consider action to be taken regarding the gambling devices being opened in the city for the week's celebration. H. G. Eaton was elected chairman and Benjamin Donovan, secretary.

There are a certain number of chesty individuals in Warren who refuse to obey the traffic regulations as laid down by the Police Department and although they may be prominent citizens this fact does not give them any privileges in this line.

The Warren county fair opened today with a large attendance. Exhibits are more complete and interesting than ever before.

Dr. E. Gail Hamilton returned to Pittsburgh Sunday after spending a month's vacation here.

The Council of Sportsmen's Clubs of Warren County decided at a recent meeting to inaugurate a sportsmen's field day, which is to become an annual event. This year it is to be held on the grounds of the Kaibfus Rod and Gun Club.

The Warren soccer team was defeated in a close and exciting game at Oakview Park Sunday afternoon, by the Swedish Reds of Jamestown, by a score of 3 to 1. Another victory for the Reds will give them the league cup, although Warren still has a fighting chance to cop the honor.

The committee from the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. have plans completed for the construction of a new building for the purpose of constructing an eight-hole miniature indoor golf course and handball court.

MEMORY OF THE MOON

by Jeanne Bowman

YESTERDAY: Constance writes the Taylors that she intends to keep the ranch, but asks them to stay. She sets out for the West again.

Chapter 19

CONSTANCE dreaded Christmas. She drew a blind across her memories, had breakfast sent in so she wouldn't see so much reflected cheer; refused to look out when the train stopped at depots, so she wouldn't have to watch reunions.

She'd read the letters. She opened them one by one. Peter Taylor's decision slid out and Constance, putting the envelope to one side, checked her movement. There was another slip of paper in it. She pulled it out. One line. She read and re-read it.

"I'm glad you agree that when you are fighting for something you love . . . all is fair."

It was signed, Pedro.

Fear that was part dread, part consternation, and part a heart strumming confusion, filled her. What had he meant? Was John right? And if so, which of the two reasons underlay the Taylors' decision to remain?

"What a Christmas present," she laughed uncertainly.

Her heart and her mind waged a day-long battle and her mind won. The train slid through dusky canyons at twilight, to come out in the star-burst of lights that was Ogden; and Constance, walking up and down under the train shed, admitted defeat, and wondered why she labeled it defeat.

For if Taylor had meant to remain, as John had said, to "marry El Cabrillo," it was the ranch and not himself that he would fight for.

Constance spent two days in San Francisco. Carl Pedersen presented himself the morning after her arrival. When he telephoned from the lobby she went down with some apprehension. It would be this man and herself, against the Taylors . . . and the Cabrillos. She was playing the future of El Cabrillo in his hands.

She noticed these hands immediately: large, strong, capable hands. She looked up to his face and liked what she saw. China blue eyes, blond hair and blunt features.

Mrs. Pedersen was with him, a large, pleasant woman who had, surprisingly, come to a learned, majored in English and was now an associate editor for a western magazine. Constance wondered what Donna, with her smattering of education, would say to that. Small Pedersen waited in a nearby hotel; they would be met later.

"You're so young," Mrs. Pedersen said.

"Old enough to know I'm too young, and that is why I need the help of a man like your husband," returned Constance, and won the woman immediately.

Pedersen wasted no time on niceties. He launched immediately into business. "The only thing to have against your plan, Miss Cabrillos, is the time limit. You have a ranch upon which stock have grazed for two hundred years. You expect to turn that into a dairy ranch of equal proportions and show profit in that time."

"You are not starting with slow replacement, but a complete turnover. I can't vouch that your fields will be fertile enough to produce our feed the first year. Thousands of cattle have torn the vitality from the soil. It will need deep ploughing and fertilizing."

"Then we have the weather to consider. If the elements are with us we stand an even chance of winning. If we have droughts and floods, I don't know."

"You see I am being frank with you. Your next business challenge to me. I'd like to have a try at it, but I don't want you to take me on thinking I am a miracle man."

"Happy New Year"

"I'm glad you've said that," Constance returned thoughtfully. "It gives me even more confidence."

"And then," Mrs. Pedersen intruded, "there is the problem of the personnel. The people with whom you and Carl will have to work," she explained. "Laugh if you will, but even a dairy farm, or perhaps I should say, particularly a dairy farm, needs harmony among the employees."

And blithely, unthinkingly and with complete unawareness Constance returned, "You can be assured of that."

They spent the rest of the day discussing affairs, the next day visiting creameries and association headquarters, then two days touring San Joaquin and Sacramento Valley dairy farms. Then they parted, the Pedersen's to go to Salinas to pack for their move north, and Constance to spend the loneliest New Year's Eve of her life in San Francisco.

The north coast gave her one of its perfect days as she started for El Cabrillo the next morning. Tanialpals was a clear, purple mound against a bright blue sky, and the railroad ferry waddled through bay waters as blue as the sky.

The air was crisp, salty, invigorating. The northbound train filled with happy people, their laughter playing muted accompaniment to some irrepressible joy in the heart of Constance.

Even Beachport, when she arrived there at noon had a festive appearance.

And waiting for her on the platform was Pedro!

Until that moment Constance hadn't known how she dreaded their first encounter, after that last half-hour on the mountain top; after John had hinted at Taylor's intentions; after all that remained unsaid between them.

She felt she would be putting him to test in this meeting and feared what she would find.

Warily she followed the porter to the vestibule, and from the top step looked down.

"Welcome, Michael," he greeted gaily.

He was glad to see her! He couldn't possibly assume that depth of warmth in his eyes. He was holding his arms and she . . . why must she be so foolish . . . she was thinking of John, wondering why she couldn't accept Taylor's louch with the same ease she accepted John's.

"Happy New Year, Pedro," she managed.

"The happiest one I've run into yet," he confirmed. "Here, porter. The bags over there . . . yes, that's right."

His concern over the bags gave her time to regain her poise, to pretend she had always had one hand tucked securely in Pedro's arm, to pretend the tightening pressure was because he was walking more rapidly than she and not overexuberance, on his part, at her return.

Now he was tucking her under a robe. The top of the car was down and he'd brought out a knit beret. "Meg made it to match your eyes," he said.

Constance changed, aware Pedro was talking too much. It wasn't natural for him to chatter. He was covering up . . . there was something he should be telling her and he wasn't. What was it?

"I hadn't expected you to meet me," she confessed as they drove off.

"Disappointed?" he turned to look at her.

"Heavens, no . . . I look out for that," as a car dashed ahead of them. "Of course not, but I thought Julian would insist upon coming, and to be frank I didn't know the Taylors would appreciate my return to El Cabrillo."

Welcoming Mood

"APPRECIATE IT?" laughed Pedro. "Dear child, Meg has spent three days in the kitchen preparing for it. You spent Christmas on the train so she's going to make up for it. And Dad," he laughed again, "he had me drive him to Beachport for a new suit; stood on his good leg while the tailor fitted him."

"He's been singing about Irish eyes, all morning."

It was impossible not to be caught up into Pedro's welcoming mood.

"And yourself?" she asked.

They were driving along the coast road, the mountains green on one side, the sea glazed gold on the other.

"Michael," Pedro's voice was low, "do you need to ask that?"

For fifty miles she didn't. For fifty miles, she allowed herself to be lifted into the translucent blue about her. She could have replied, "No, I'm enjoying your welcome." Or gaily, "I wanted to know if you could sing."

Instead she stretched her hand towards him impulsively and said simply—"No, Pedro." The answer lay in his grasp of her imprisoned hand. For this short drive she would forget everything but the distilled drip of warm, disturbing joy for her own, and tucked away to shed faint perfume on some distant, gray tomorrow.

Then she was home, on El Camino Real, the long lines of Eucalyptus trees, silver leaves still clinging, bark peeled from the trunks, leaving them pink and white and cold-looking.

And there she stood with the ranch house, yellowing willows, shaggy sparse leaves allowing the winter sunshine to wash the white walls.

"My trunks came, didn't they?" she asked. "And the keys? Then I'll stop and dress for Meg's dinner."

Pedro seemed about to protest, instead he drew up before the house and turned to her, his face serious, his voice apologetic—"Michael, after reading your letter, I . . . we, wanted to make your homecoming just that, a welcome after years of exile. We wanted everything perfect."

"And isn't it?" she asked.

"No," he began, then he started to laugh. "No, it isn't. Julian doesn't like milk cows. I'll wait here for you."

Constance looked at the house. No flowers hung from the balcony, though Dolores had assured her they were always brought out from the patio, in sunshine. The blinds were drawn. There were no signs of life anywhere.

"You go on," she told Pedro, as he helped her from the car. "I'll take care of this!"

Pedro looked at the narrowing eyes, hesitated a moment, then as though reaching some inner agreement drove away.

Constance lifted the old iron knocker and dropped it. The echo died away, but no one opened the door. She tried again, then with a burst of anger tried the knob and flung open the door.

There was a home, on El Camino Real, the long lines of Eucalyptus trees, silver leaves still clinging, bark peeled from the trunks, leaving them pink and white and cold-looking.

And there ahead was the ranch house, yellowing willows, shaggy sparse leaves allowing the winter sunshine to wash the white walls. "My trunks came, didn't they?" she asked. "And the keys? Then I'll stop and dress for Meg's dinner."

Pedro seemed about to protest, instead he drew up before the house and turned to her, his face serious, his voice apologetic—"Michael, after reading your letter, I... we, wanted to make your homecoming just that; a welcome after years of exile. We wanted everything perfect."

And isn't it? she asked. "No," he began, then he started to laugh. "No, it isn't. Julian doesn't like milk cows. I'll wait here for you."

MRS. KUESTER IS ANNOUNCING CLASSES

Edith Haines Kuester, wife of the new voice department head at the Warren Conservatory of Music, Eugene Kuester, is announcing elsewhere in this issue a class for creative piano technique for both children and adults.

Besides many compositions for piano and violin, Mrs. Kuester makes a specialty of writing technique teaching numbers for the piano. William O'Toole, of New York Creative Music Publishers, has included three of her works in his series of creative piano technique teaching compositions. Through these numbers, Mrs. Kuester strives to awaken the dormant creative instinct in the music pupil.

FALL COLORS OFFER BECOMINGNESS TO ALL

Summer clothes soon will be having that "lost button" look, for as days grow cool we think of fall costumes.

Let's take up the color circle and see what is needed in order to make the best use of what we already have in our wardrobe, suggests Mrs. Thelma Frendegast, home economics extension representative, Warren County.

The perennial black never fails to make its appearance at this season. A large proportion of the new dresses are black, but not all black. Bright red supplies a brilliant contrast. Of all the fall colors, red is the brightest one and is used for entire dresses as well as for bright touches with black.

Yellow promises to be a favorite color in college clothes, says Mrs. Frendegast. For the more subdued and rich shades, there is a dark gold shade called brass. Copper, a more reddish shade, is also good.

Blues this season are grayish, and grays that verge on taupe are "warm" shades. Greens, ranging from light gray-green to dark olive tones, will be favorites.

In selecting a basic color scheme for fall, you have three directions from which to choose, she explains. First, use your bright colors as accents against the darker, more subdued tones of your costume. Second, have everything in your most becoming color with the only variations in your costume jewelry and "hankies". Third, vary this becoming shade by using two or more shades of it. For example, three shades of green, or beige with dark brown and a bright golden brown.

There are plenty of colors from which to choose, so no one need have a single unbecoming hat or dress, according to Mrs. Frendegast.

Guard Against Food Spoilage For health and safety, guard your food, urges Mrs. Thelma Frendegast, home economics extension representative, Warren County. Especially in hot weather, harmful bacteria multiply rapidly.

If you are planning picnic food, don't prepare them too early if you are carrying them a long distance. Potato salads, custards, and other picnic food containing eggs should be kept chilled from the time they are made until they are eaten.

The blood of thoroughbred dogs varies in type, but that of mongrels is always the same, according to veterinarians.

"We think there will be several million dollars we can make available for this work."

Some of the work may be let out to private contractors, the governor said, but most of it will be done by the highways department.

He added it will not affect the $23,000,000 construction schedule for 1941, now being drafted, and will be in addition to approximately $40,000,000 worth of work already under way or under contract.

FRANK KRIMBILL.

Frank Krimbill, 52, a resident of Youngville for the past thirty years, died very suddenly about 1:40 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the office of the Warren Electric Cooperative, Inc., at Pittsfield, where he was employed as a bookkeeper. Another employee of the office told Coroner Ed C. Lowrey that the man suddenly slumped over the desk at which he was working. A Youngville physician was summoned but Mr. Krimbill passed away before his arrival. Death was attributed to a heart ailment for which he had been under treatment for some time, according to the information given the coroner.

Mr. Krimbill went to Youngville from Kinzua about thirty years ago. For several years he was a member of the office staff of the Forest Furniture Company, later operating a farm until this summer, when he returned to office work at the Warren Electric Cooperative.

He was a member of North Star Lodge, F. and A. M., of Warren. He is survived by his wife, Olive N. Krimbill; one sister, Mrs. Carrie M. Hare, of Ingleswood, Calif., and one brother, Harry Krimbill, of Tulsa, Okla.

Funeral services will be held from the home, 128 West Main street, Youngville, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, eastern standard time. Interment will be in the Youngville cemetery with Masonic rites being used at the grave.

Nation-Wide Survey Reveals England is Free

(From Page One) ampton, Bristol and Plymouth, our staff was permitted to go freely to see for themselves the extent of damage—and the lack of it.

Dover, focal point of attack by air and artillery across the channel, is surprisingly free of extensive destruction. The inhabitants are repairing homes and even building new ones in the face of Nazi air armadas which daily roar overhead.

At the great naval base of Portsmouth, raiders once succeeded in dropping a bomb in the courtyard of the barracks but little damage was done and no one was hurt. Most of the fatalities there have been among civilians.

At Southampton, police gave me carte blanche not only to go where I pleased but also to photograph what I pleased. One bomb had set fire to a cold storage warehouse, and a few houses had been wrecked here, but the streets were filled with shoppers. The shops and great fruit and meat storehouses were amply supplied.

Plymouth and Bristol, although frequently attacked, showed little evidence of bombings.

Around the greater London area, the heaviest toll has been taken in the matter of property. High explosive and incendiary bombs have caused negligible damage—and that chiefly to residential property. Many of the fire bombs have been extinguished quickly by AFS—auxiliary fire service-workers.

Occasionally a rumor spreads that some vast sweep of London's docks has been a target of a severe bombing, but so far no first-hand survey has borne out such reports.

Liverpool, still one of Britain's busiest ports, has been the target of numerous fire bombs, some of which started small fires on the docks, but these soon were extinguished.

People all over the nation are becoming accustomed to the banishment of the air raid siren warning of imminent danger. Most of them quietly take shelter at such times, although great numbers pay no attention.

Sewers were hit, a gas main wrecked, railroad stations hit and communications temporarily knocked out, an air raid shelter containing 1,000 persons hit, a hospital demolished and houses and shops knocked to pieces.

Officials said there were comparatively few casualties resulting from the bomb shelter and hospital hits. While London was undergoing this non-stop raid, similar alarms and attacks were occurring throughout virtually the rest of England.

Then the raiders returned just as Londoners were going to work. Anti-aircraft boomed and explosions were heard. Curls of smoke from the exhaust of planes so high in the sky they were invisible gave spectators the feeling of watching a ghostly combat.

The morning alarm lasted an hour and 11 minutes, and then just after noon Londoners were sent to shelters again by an alarm that lasted 59 minutes.

Air raiders were the main objectives of two formidable formations. A terrific battle was fought for 15 minutes near one of these fields.

British reports said the bomber masses, failing to hit either of the fields, were broken up and beat off.

Berlin, Sept. 6.—(P)—The German High Command reported German bombers "effectively" bombed British harbors and industrial establishments last night during far-ranging raids over northwest, southeast and central England.

The High Command said several airports in the neighborhood of Lincoln and big oil depots at Thames Haven, in Essex, and dock facilities in east London were blasted and set afire.

"In the course of these attacks German raiders engaged in furious encounters with British fighters, but came out victorious, the daily communiqué said.

Other heavy attacks were reported made on Liverpool, Sunderland, 12 miles southeast of Newcastle; the naval base at Portsmouth, Blyth and Hull, on the northeastern coast and Newcastle.

The widespread night attacks followed 50 raids reported yesterday in one of the heaviest assaults thus far against Britain.

Draft Program For Industries Willkie's Plan

ers late yesterday: "Under the Overton-Russell plan and optimistic, the Republican presidential nominee told report amendment which the Senate adopted to the military selective service bill, industries could be seized by the government because of the caprice of one man."

"If a bill were introduced providing that in case of emergencies industries should be selected—just as in the case of men for the army—and taken over by the government under rules and regulations instead of the arbitrary act of one man, I would be for it."

Willkie's Lincoln conference yesterday with Republican national committee members, committeemen and state chairmen from the east and midwest marked the formal opening of the party organization's campaign.

Any signs of friction between Republican groups and Willkie-for-President clubs, he said, had disappeared.

The major item on Willkie's schedule today was a conference with 50 midwest farm editors, whom he planned to take afterward on a tour of his five Rusks county farms.

During the next week he will work on speeches for his western tour, and may spend Friday, Sept. 13, in a whirlwind tour of Chicago, Illinois leaders want him to speak at the stockyards, in the western part of the city, at a steel mill and at a negro ball park.

The device of hearts was opened, and von Zedtwitz saw there was only one chance to make the contract—if the hearts were divided 4-4 and the trumps 3-2, and the king of diamonds was right, it could be made.

He ruffed the first heart, won a small club with the king, ruffed another heart, ruffed the six of clubs, ruffed a third heart, ruffed the queen of clubs, ruffed the fourth heart, and thereby established the ten of hearts in dummy.

Now he cashed the ace and king of trumps, then played the queen of diamonds, which West refused to cover. Declarer next cashed the ace of clubs, discarding dummy's small diamond, and all that West could make was his trump.

WPA. James explained, "It looks very much like they will hardly absorb more than $8,000,000."

"We think there will be several million dollars we can make available for this work."

Some of the work may be let out to private contractors, the governor said, but most of it will be done by the highways department.

He added it will not affect the $23,000,000 construction schedule for 1941, now being drafted, and will be in addition to approximately $40,000,000 worth of work already under way or under contract.

OBITUARY

FRANK KRIMBILL

Frank Krimbill, 52, a resident of Youngsville for the past thirty years, died yesterday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the office of the Warren Electric Cooperative, Inc., at Pittsfield, where he was employed as a bookkeeper. Another employee of the office told Coroner Ed C. Lowrey that the man suddenly slumped over the desk at which he was working. A Youngsville physician was summoned but Mr. Krimbill passed away before his arrival. Death was attributed to a heart ailment for which he had been under treatment for some time, according to the information given to the coroner.

Mr. Krimbill went to Youngsville from Kinzua about thirty years ago. For several years he was a member of the office staff of the Forest Furniture Company, later operating a farm until this summer, when he returned to office work at the Warren Electric Cooperative.

He was a member of North Star Lodge, F. and A. M., of Warren. He is survived by his wife, Olive N. Krimbill; one sister, Mrs. Carrie M. Hare, of Ingleswood, Calif., and one brother, Harry Krimbill, of Tulsa, Okla.

Funeral services will be held from the home, 128 West Main street, Youngsville, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, eastern standard time. Interment will be in the Youngsville cemetery with Masonic rites being used at the grave.

Nation-Wide Survey Reveals England is Free

ampton, Bristol and Plymouth, our staff was permitted to go freely to see for themselves the extent of damage—and the lack of it.

Dover, focal point of attack by air and artillery across the channel, is surprisingly free of extensive destruction. The inhabitants are repairing homes and even building new ones in the face of Nazi air armadas which daily roar overhead.

At the great naval base of Portsmouth, raiders once succeeded in dropping a bomb in the courtyard of the barracks but little damage was done and no one was hurt. Most of the fatalities there have been among civilians.

At Southampton, police gave me carte blanche not only to go where I pleased but also to photograph what I pleased. One bomb had set fire to a cold storage warehouse and a few houses had been wrecked here, but the streets were filled with shoppers. The shops and great fruit and meat storehouses were amply supplied.

Plymouth and Bristol, although frequently attacked, showed little evidence of bombings.

Around the great London area, the heaviest toll has been taken in the matter of sleep. High explosive and incendiary bombs have caused negligible damage—and that chiefly to residential property. Many of the fire bombs have been extinguished quickly by AFS—auxiliary fire service-workers.

Occasionally a rumor spreads that some vast sweep of London's docks has been a target of a severe bombing, but so far no first-hand survey has borne out such reports.

Liverpool, still one of Britain's busiest ports, has been the target of numerous fire bombs, some of which started small fires on the docks, but these soon were extinguished.

People all over the nation are becoming accustomed to the banishment of the air raid siren, warning of imminent danger. Most of them quietly take shelter at such times, although great numbers pay no attention.

manufacturers for 2,617 additional fighting, scouting and bombing planes and 27,000 propellers.

The propellers were intended for both army and navy use during the 1941 and 1942 fiscal years, and 70-odd bombers among the planes also were for the army.

strewn wreckage showed the Germans had succeeded in getting through to drop bombs in virtually every district around the London balloon barrage. Sewers were hit, a gas main wrecked, railroad stations hit and communications temporarily knocked out, an air raid shelter containing 1,000 persons hit, a hospital demolished and houses and shops knocked to pieces.

Officials said there were comparatively few casualties resulting from the bomb shelter and hospital hits.

While London was undergoing this non-stop raid, similar alarms and attacks were occurring throughout virtually the rest of England.

Then the raiders returned just as Londoners were going to work. Antiaircraft boomed and explosions were heard. Curls of smoke from the exhaust of planes so high in the sky they were invisible gave spectators the feeling of watching a ghost combat.

The morning alarm lasted an hour and 11 minutes, and then just after noon Londoners were sent to shelters again by an alarm that lasted 59 minutes.

Air raiders were the main objectives of two formidable formations. A terrific battle was fought for 15 minutes near one of these fields.

British reports said the bomber masses, failing to hit either of the fields, were broken up and beat off.

Berlin, Sept. 6.—(P)—The German High Command reported German bombers "effectively" bombed British harbors and industrial establishments last night during far-ranging raids over northwest, southeast and central England.

The High Command said several airports in the neighborhood of Lincoln and big oil depots at Thames Haven, in Essex, and dock facilities in east London were blasted and set afire.

In the course of these attacks German raiders engaged in furious encounters with British fighters, but came out victorious, the daily communiqué said.

Other heavy attacks were reported made on Liverpool, Sunderland, 12 miles southeast of Newcastle; the naval base at Portsmouth, Blyth and Hull, on the northeastern coast and Newcastle.

The widespread night attacks followed 50 raids reported yesterday in one of the heaviest assaults thus far against Britain.

Draft Program For Industries Willkie's Plan

Under the Overton-Russell plan and optimistic, the Republican presidential nominee told reporters, which the Senate adopted to the military selective service bill, industries could be seized by the government because of the caprice of one man.

"If a bill were introduced providing that in case of emergencies industries should be selected—just as in the case of men for the army—and taken over by the government under rules and regulations instead of the arbitrary act of one man, I would be for it."

Willkie's inchoate conference yesterday with Republican national committeemen, committeewomen and state chairmen from the east and midwest marked the formal opening of the party organization's campaign.

Any signs of friction between Republican groups and Willkie's President clubs, he said, had disappeared.

The major item on Willkie's schedule today was a conference with 50 midwest farm editors, whom he planned to take afterward on a tour of his five Rush county farms.

During the next week he will work on speeches for his western tour, and may spend Friday, Sept. 13, in a whirlwind tour of Chicago. Illinois leaders want him to speak at the stockyards, in the western part of the city, at a steel mill and at a negro ball park.

Italian Airmen Retaliate

For British Visits

At the same time the High Command admitted British raiders "still coming from Switzerland" had done "damage of some importance" to private dwellings and railway cars at Turin and San Paolo.

This quickened tempo followed upon yesterday's communiqué which told of a whole series of heavy naval and air engagements which ranged from the coast of Algeria to the eastern Mediterranean and the Red Sea.

(Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the British House of Commons yesterday that large scale warfare was likely to break out in the middle east at any time. He said the British fleet had been redoubled, and reinforcements carried to Malta and other British positions in the area.)

KRAMER WINS AGAIN; MISS PALFREY OUT

New York, Sept. 6.—(P)—A 19-year-old kid with a touch of magic in his racket led the field into the quarter-final round of the 59th annual national singles tennis championships at Forest Hills today. Jack Kramer, the giant kid, wasn't the first to gain the coveted round of eight, but his victory streak, capped today with a smashing triumph over Hank Prusoff of Seattle, by 6-2, 6-4, 5-7, 6-0 has caught everyone's fancy. The feminine contingent produced the day's major upset when Mary Hardwick of England, the Wightman Cup ace, blasted pretty Sarah Palfrey of New York by 6-1, 6-3.

Deacon McKechnie Will Not Scout the Indians; He's Seen Tigers and Knows All About Yanks; Reds Made Many Mistakes in '39 World Series

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

WILLIAM BOYD McKECHNIE will not bother to scout the American League pennant winner. "I'll know plenty about them if they turn out to be the Yankees," smiles the manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

Bill McKechnie gets a load of the Detroit Tigers in exhibition games each spring, but 24 years have elapsed since he saw a Cleveland club. He played third base for the Reds in an all-Ohio fall series in 1916, which was the last time he had a closeup of the Indians.

The Reds beat the Indians, but attendance was so poor the post-season show was not repeated. There will be no trouble on that score if the Indians qualify to battle the Rhinelanders in the 1940 world series. There will be no lack of patronage and there will be room for close to 100,000 persons in Cleveland's municipal stadium.

McKECHNIE has had an opportunity to inspect Bob Feller only in an all-star game. "He's a really great pitcher, but pitching is what put the Reds where they are today," says the Deacon. "He'll come near matching Feller with either Paul Derringer or Ray Walters. Those two made our pitching staff and club. They take the pressure off the younger fellows—Junior Thompson, Whitey Moore and John Hutchings."

"Right now I'm concentrating on winning the National League pennant. I'll let the American Leaguers take care of their own problems."

"Naturally, if we were a mathematical certainty, I'd like to take a look at the club we most likely would meet in the world series, but this scouting of other clubs is grossly over-rated."

"A HUNDRED baseball men will tell me how to pitch to Weaver, Casey, Boggs, Trasky, Heath and Keltner of Cleveland in case they get in the picture, and I know enough of New York and Detroit to tell me a little too much about the Yankees."

But it might pay Bill McKechnie to take a peek at the Indians following the Reds' last eastern trip.

The Redlegs might not then make the many mistakes of which they were guilty as the Yankees swept four straight a year ago. The way the Reds played Charley Keller and did a lot of other things made baseball men suspect they had never seen or heard of

Must Complete Net Matches This Week

The committee in charge of the Warren County Tennis Tournament announced today that all first-round matches must be completed no later than Saturday or the players will be considered to have defaulted.

To date, Stan Korb has advanced to the second round by a default. Remaining matches are: John Anderson and Korschak, Amy and Kunselben and Murray Andersen and Holt.

Conroy, Yerg, Irvin and Grevello who drew byes won their second round matches and are awaiting competition, except in the case of Yerg and Conroy who meet in the third round. Yerg defeated Pattrick, 6-4, 6-2.

Meanwhile, Coach Leidy countered with a week of intensive drill which saw his varsity backs, mostly inexperienced, rehearsed in the fundamentals of breaking up passes, an art in which they were particularly inept on Monday.

The backs and ends also went through maneuvers designed to turn in end sweeps with which the Lions gained considerable yardage, while the linemen charged hard and low to break up running plays before they could get started.

The Blue and White starting lineup will probably not be greatly changed, although there is a (Turn to Page Twelve)

FORGERS PLAYING AT HOSPITAL TOMORROW

Joe Gardner's State Hospital crew will wind up their season tomorrow afternoon on the institution diamond when they meet the team they would most like to trim—the district champion Forgers, who turned back the Hospital in the tourney at Irvine.

"Lefty" Kulick or Hank Wise will draw the pitching assignment for the Wolfemen, while Joe Gilson or Jim Rose will hurl for the Gardner-Swanson combine.

The game will begin at 2:30 o'clock.

OLEAN RUNS UP 24-7 COUNT ON HAMILTON

The Olean Oilers won their second Pony League playoff game last night, romping nearly over the Hamilton Red Wings 24 to 7 at Olean. The two teams play at Hamilton tonight where the New Yorkers can end the series.

At Batavia, London bowed 2 to 0 although Rose, London hurler, allowed only two hits.

ONLY TWO GAMES NOW SEPARATE YANKS AND TIGERS FROM FIRST PLACE AS INDIANS AGAIN FLOP

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The American League inferno is getting hot enough to explode, and it probably will next week.

Right now, there is a good possibility Cleveland, Detroit and New York will be approximately tied by Tuesday when the world champion Yankees invade the west for two games with the Indians and three with the Tigers.

The valiant Detroit Tigers overwhelmed the Indians again yesterday, 11-3, and the Yankees walked the Senators in both ends of a doubleheader, 2-1 and 7-1. Furthermore, the Boston Red Sox pounced on the Philadelphia Athletics, 9-7, and created the almost unprecedented situation of the entire first division being bunched inside 4½ games three weeks before the season ends.

These are the figures:

Club	W.	L.	Pct.	Behind
Cleveland	75	54	.581
New York	73	56	.565	2
Detroit	74	57	.565	2
Boston	72	60	.545	4½

A four-game losing streak hardly can be called a Cleveland collapse, but the Tigers certainly have the Indians on the run. After trampling Bobby Feller Wednesday, the Detroit sluggers (Turn to Page Twelve)

SPORT SCATTERINGS

We think you're going to see a much improved Dragon team on Russell Field tomorrow. We dropped in at a couple of practices this week and found that the varsity backs have learned plenty in a few days and evidently profited much from their baptism by fire on Monday.

Particularly improved was the running of veteran Joe Tamburino, who is the only 1939 letterman backfield performer. "Sting" Brown and Landers. And keep your eye on "Spinner" Johnson, who appeared in the last part of the Academy game and showed himself the possessor of considerable ability in artful dodging. The line, which was the bright light of the opening races, has picked up some offensive skill and those bores should be a little wider and more permanent tomorrow.

Strong Vincent hung up a 13-6 count over the Dragons last year and then went on to win the city championship behind such stars as Dick DiTullio, Chuck Miller and Captain Bob Orlando, the latter one of the finest linemen in the district. According to "Sad Sam" Kramer, his line averages only 160 pounds and his backfield ten pounds less, but the Vincent mentor is given to wailing and tearing his hair before the season opens, and sometimes "he doth protest too much." Samuel will have something even if he did lose DiTullio, Knox, Orlando and Miller. With a "pony" team, Sam admits he will abandon force and take to the air in the Colonels' first game here tomorrow.

You said it. . . . Coach Tord Beck's Youngsville Eagles get their first taste of action tonight against the Titusville Rockets under the lights. . . . Evan "Sammy" Hicks, former Princeton baseball star and now coach at Peddie Institute, is a Warren visitor. . . . George Washington Case, who leads both leagues in stolen sacks, is one of Hicks' proteges. . . . The Hitchcock brothers will get a pretty nice share of the American Association series this year. . . . Bill plays third for the top-spot Kansas City club and Jim is shortstop for second place Columbus. . . . Jim will soon head for Auburn, where he coaches the backfield aspirants on how to get by Tennessee. . . . There's a rumor going around that the Arcade Alleys are open, but Thad hasn't paid us his annual official visit as yet. . . . If you're baseball instead of football minded, there's a hot clash at the State Hospital tomorrow afternoon between the Forge and the Gardnermen. . . . The game officially closes the Hospital's diamond for the year. . . . Sid Blackman, Jr., proved to your agent that he is a nifty news photographer as he Grafixed the high school squad at practice. . . . The clash between Johnny Nelson and Stu Maguire waxed hotter and hotter. . . . Boys, boys! . . . Sore wrists yesterday morning were caused by football fans trying to tune in the All-Star game at the Polo Grounds. . . . We found one station crying the account and completely drowned out by a more powerful outfit playing sad music. . . . Yeah, on our crystal set.

BILLY CONN AND Majority of Opening PASTOR SEEKING Tilts Played Tonight; SHOT AT BOMBER Eagles at Titusville

BY GEORGE A. SCOTT
Associated Press Staff Writer

Heralding a new season for sports for 1940, Pennsylvania's high school football teams officially open their campaign this weekend with more than 25 games scattered across the state.

Reflecting the ever-growing trend toward night football, a majority of the games are carded for tonight. Punksutawney will inaugurate an light competition against Clarion with special exercises at which Head Coach Bob Higgins of Penn State will speak.

In today's only afternoon contest, Franklin boro and Adams township clashed at Adams township in a Western Pennsylvania Conference tilt. The game originally was scheduled for Wednesday night at Johnstown, but was postponed because of baseball playoffs at the Johnstown Stadium.

First of the defending conference champions to take the field, Clearfield is host to St. Marys tonight in an engagement that may indicate the Bisons' chances of repeating their 1939 Western Pennsylvania title achievement. St. Marys, a non-conference foe, held Coach Bill Gutteron's team to a 12-12 deadlock last year.

After losing 21 member of his squad by graduation, Gutteron is none too optimistic about this year's prospect, but expects to have a strong first team. Much of the Bisons' success will depend upon the ability of inexperienced veterans to plug the gaps left by graduation.

Coach George Kavel's Mt. Carmel eleven, touted as an outstanding prospect for Eastern Conference honors, opens its season against Mt. Carmel township, while Erie East plays at Oil City, Elizabeth at Clairton, St. Clair at Pottsville and Erie Tech at Farrell in other outstanding contests tonight. Tomorrow's slim schedule is high-lighted by Ambridge's invasion of Monaca and the East Pittsburgh-McKeesport, and Coopers township-Curwensville contests.

Erie Academy, annually one of the state's grid leaders, already is off on the right foot. The Academy eleven topped Warren, 24 to 0, in what was the state's first game of the year at Warren Labor Day.

The weekend schedule includes these games:

Tonight
Patton Trade at Columbia.
St. Marys at Clearfield.
Rostaver at Charleroi.
Elizabeth at Clairton.
Grove City at New Castle.
Marion at Uniontown.
Erie Tech at Farrell.
Erie East at Oil City.
Weedville at Johnstown.
Clarion at Punksutawney.
Bigler Twp. at Tyrone.
Reynoldsville at DuBois.
Rimersburg at Hardback.
Grove City at New Castle.
Avella at Trinity.
Mt. Carmel Twp. at Mt. Carmel.
Youngsville at Titusville.

Tomorrow
Erie Strong Vincent at Warren.
East Pittsburgh at McKeesport.
Ambridge at Monaca.
South Huntingdon at Ford City.

KRAMER WINS AGAIN; MISS PALFREY OUT

New York, Sept. 6.—(P.)—A 19-year-old kid with a touch of magic in his racquet led the field into the quarter-final round of the 59th annual national singles tennis championships at Forest Hills today. Jack Kramer, the giant killer, wasn't the first to gain the coveted round of eight, but his victory streak, capped today with a smashing triumph over Hank Prusoff of Seattle, by 6-2, 6-4, 5-7, 6-0 has caught everyone's fancy.

The feminine contingent produced the day's major upset when Mary Hawick of England, the Wightman Cup ace, blasted pretty Sarah Palfrey of New York by 6-1, 6-3.

Last Night's Bouts

By the Associated Press.
Garfield, N. J.—Gus Lesnevich, 187 of Clarksburg, N. J., stopped Henry Cooper, 192, of New York (5).
Waterbury, Conn.—Larry Lovett, 182 of Hartford, beat Charlie Eagle, 18, of Waterbury, (8).

Must Complete Net Matches This Week

The committee in charge of the Warren County Tennis Tournament announced today that all first-round matches must be completed no later than Saturday or the players will be considered to have defaulted.

To date, Stan Korb has advanced to the second round by a default. Remaining matches are: John Anderson and Korchak, Amy and Kunselman and Murray Andersen and Holt.

Conroy, Yerg, Irvin and Crevello who drew byes won their second round matches and are awaiting competition, except in the case of Yerg and Conroy who meet in the third round. Yerg defeated Pas-trick, 6-4, 6-2.

FORGERS PLAYING AT HOSPITAL TOMORROW

Joe Gardner's State Hospital crew will wind up their season tomorrow afternoon on the institution diamond when they meet the team they would most like to trim—the district champion Forgers, who turned back the Hospital in the tourney at Irvine.

"Lefty" Kulick or Hank Wise will draw the pitching assignment for the Wolfemen, while Joe Gilson or Jim Rose will hurl for the Gardner-Swanson combine. The game will begin at 2:30 o'clock.

OLEAN RUNS UP 24-7 COUNT ON HAMILTON

The Olean Oilers won their second Pony League playoff game last night, romping merrily over the Hamilton Red Wings 24 to 7 at Olean. The two teams play at Hamilton tonight where the New Yorkers can end the series.

At Batavia, London bowed 2 to 0 although Rose, London hurler, allowed only two hits.

ONLY TWO GAMES NOW SEPARATE YANKS AND TIGERS FROM FIRST PLACE AS INDIANS AGAIN FLOP

BY JUDSON BAILEY

The American League inferno is getting hot enough to explode, and it probably will next week.

Right now, there is a good possibility Cleveland, Detroit and New York will be approximately tied by Tuesday when the world champion Yankees invade the west for two games with the Indians and three with the Tigers.

The valiant Detroit Tigers overwhelmed the Indians again yesterday, 11-3, and the Yankees welcomed the Senators in both ends of a doubleheader, 2-1 and 7-1. Furthermore, the Boston Red Sox pounced on the Philadelphia Athletics, 9-7, and created the almost unprecedented situation of the entire first division being bunched inside 4½ games three weeks before the season ends.

These are the figures:

Club	W.	L.	Pct.	Behind
Cleveland	75	54	.581
New York	73	56	.565	2
Detroit	74	57	.565	2
Boston	72	60	.545	4½

A four-game losing streak hardly can be called a Cleveland collapse, but the Tigers certainly have the Indians on the run. After trampling Bobby Feller Wednesday, the Detroit sluggers (Turn to Page Twelve)

Grayson's SCOREBOARD

Deacon McKechnie Will Not Scout the Indians; He's Seen Tigers and Knows All About Yanks; Reds Made Many Mistakes in '39 World Series

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor
WILLIAM BOYD McKECHNIE will not bother to scout the American League pennant winner. "I'll know plenty about them if they turn out to be the Yankees," smiles the manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

Bill McKechnie gets a load of the Detroit Tigers in exhibition games each spring, but 24 years have elapsed since he saw a Cleveland club. He played third base for the Reds in an all-Ohio fall series in 1916, which was the last time he had a closeup of the Indians. The Reds beat the Indians, but attendance was so poor the post-season show was not repeated. There will be no trouble on that score if the Indians qualify to battle the Rhinelanders in the 1940 world series. There will be no lack of patronage and there will be room for close to 100,000 persons in Cleveland's municipal stadium.

McKECHNIE has had an opportunity to inspect Bob Feller only in all-star games. "He's a really great pitcher, but pitching is what put the Reds where they are today," says the Deacon. "We'll come near matching Feller with either Paul Derringer or Bucky Walters. Those two made our pitching staff and club. They take the pressure off the younger fellows—Junior Thompson, Whitey Moore and John Hutchings."

"Right now I'm concentrating on winning the National League pennant. I'll let the American Leaguers take care of their own problems."

"Naturally, if we were a mathematical certainty, I'd like to take a look at the club we most likely would meet in the world series, but this scouting of other clubs is grossly over-rated."

"A HUNDRED baseball men will tell me how to pitch to Weatherly, Boudreau, Trosky, Heath and Keltner of Cleveland in case they get in the picture and I know enough of New York and Detroit . . . a little too much about the Yankees."

But it might pay Bill McKechnie to take a peek at the Indians following the Reds' last eastern trip.

The Reds might not then make the many mistakes of which they were guilty as the Yankees swept four straight a year ago. They way the Reds played Charley Keller and did a lot of other things made baseball men suspect they had never seen or heard of the Yankees.

SPORT SPATTERINGS

We think you're going to see a much improved Dragon team on Russell Field tomorrow. We dropped in at a couple of practices this week and found that the varsity backs have learned plenty in a few days and evidently profited much from their baptism by fire on Monday. Particularly improved was the running of veteran Joe Tamburine, who is the only 1939 letterman backfield performer, "Sting" Brown and Landers. And keep your eye on "Spinner" Johnson, who appeared in the last part of the Academy game and showed himself the possessor of considerable ability in artful dodging. The line, which was the bright light of the opening fracas, has picked up some offensive skill and those holes should be a little wider and more permanent tomorrow.

Strong Vincent hung up a 13-6 count over the Dragons last year and then went on to win the city championship behind such stars as Dick DiTullio, Chuck Miller and Captain Bob Orlando, the latter one of the finest linemen in the district. According to "Sad Sam" Kramer, his line averages only 160 pounds and his backfield ten pounds less, but the Vincent mentor is given to waiting and tearing his hair before the season opens, and sometimes "he doth protest too much." Samuel will have something even if he did lose DiTullio, Knox, Orlando and Miller. With a "pony" team, Sam admits he will abandon force and take to the air in the Colonels' first game here tomorrow.

You said it . . . Coach Tord Beck's Youngsville Eagles get their first taste of action tonight against the Titusville Rockets under the lights . . . Evan "Sammy" Hicks, former Princeton baseball star and now coach at Peddie Institute, is a Warren visitor . . . George Washington Case, who leads both leagues in stolen sacks, is one of Hicks' proteges . . . The Hitchcock brothers will get a pretty nice share of the American Association series this year . . . Bill plays third for the top-spot Kansas City club and Jim is shortstop for second place Columbus . . . Jim will soon head for Auburn, where he coaches the backfield aspirants on how to get by Tennessee . . . There's a rumor going around that the Arcade Alleys are open, but Thad hasn't paid us his annual official visit as yet . . . If you're baseball instead of football minded, there's a hot clash at the State Hospital tomorrow afternoon between the Forge and the Gardnermen . . . The game officially closes the Hospital's diamond for the year . . . Sid Blackman, Jr., proved to your agent that he is a nifty news photographer as he Grafted the high school squad at practice . . . The clash between Johnny Nelson and Stu Maguire waxes hotter and hotter . . . Boys, boys! . . . Sore wrists yesterday morning were caused by football fans trying to tune in the All-Star game at the Polo Grounds . . . We found one station carrying the account and completely drowned out by a more powerful outfit playing sad music . . . Yeah, on our crystal set.

YEARS AGO IN SPORT

September 6, 1920—There are going to be ball games here every day during Old Home Week. The All-Jamestown team, with Hugh Bedient pitching, and Brookville will be the attractions, the latter being booked for four games in this city. Warren was defeated by nine men and an umpire yesterday at Jamestown.

September 6, 1930—Of the players who took part in the Sunset League this season, Ray Poppleton led the hitters with an average of .514 for the Barrette Cleaners, taking part in 14 games. Fitzgerald, of the State-Bankers, hit .463 and Swanson, of the same team, batted at .455 clip.

GOLF'S BIG NAMES IN ANTHRACITE OPEN

Scranton, Sept. 6.—(P.)—Most of the big names in professional golf and a group of top-flight amateurs teed off today in the opening round of the $5,000 Anthracite Open golf tournament.

Heading the field were P. G. A. Champion Byron Nelson, of Toledo, O.; Lawson Little, National Open winner, and Sammy Snead, transplanted from the West Virginia hills to Shawnee-On-the-Delaware, Pa.

As the 72-hole medal play contest got under way, Fred Corcoran, tournament manager for the Professional Golfers' Association, predicted that "from 280 to 283" will be good enough to drag down the first prize of $1,200. The 273 turned in by last year's winner, Henry Picard, of Hershey, Pa., was "phenomenal," said Corcoran, and "I don't believe it will be equalled this year."

O'BRIEN SPARKLES BUT CHICAGO WINS

Philadelphia, Sept. 6.—(P.)—The Philadelphia Eagles flunked their first test of the season but little Davey O'Brien served notice on the National Professional Football loop that he's still the same deadly tosser who won the all-league berth last year.

The one-time Texas Christian sparkplug put on a one-man aerial circus last night, but his three touchdown passes couldn't match the 27 points rammed over by the Chicago Bears in an exhibition game before 35,000 at Temple University Stadium.

In his professional debut last year O'Brien completed 99 out of 201 heaves.

BOB TRAUB EXPECTED TO MAKE VARSITY

A special news item from Franklin and Marshall College to the Times-Mirror states that Robert Traub, of this city, is among the candidates expected to win a varsity post this season. Traub, a junior, was reserve end on the 1939 team, but Coach Holman expects him to be one of mainstays this season.

Franklin and Marshall College this year tackles the toughest "small college" schedule in the east. The schedule follows: Sept. 28, Lebanon Valley, home; Oct. 5, Dartmouth, away; Oct. 12, Richmond, home; Oct. 19, Muhlenberg, home; Oct. 26, Gettysburg, away; Nov. 2, Albright, away; Nov. 9, New York U., away; Nov. 16, Carnegie Tech, home; Nov. 28, Ursinus, home.

BILLY CONN AND Majority of Opening PASTOR SEEKING Tilts Played Tonight: SHOT AT Bomber Eagles at Titusville

New York, Sept. 6.—(P.)—Billy Conn and Bob Pastor, a couple of fancy Dans of the boxing ring, fight it out over the 15-round route in Madison Square Garden tonight to decide a future opponent for Joe Louis, but when last heard from Joe wasn't worrying too much about it.

The best that can be said about the chances of the Pittsburgh pretty boy or the ex-collegian from Manhattan, if tossed in there with the Bomber, is that tonight's fight should be a good match.

BROADCAST
Tonight's heavyweight fight in Madison Square Garden will be broadcast by the NBC-WJZ chain at ten o'clock, daylight time, with Sam Taub and Bill Stern at the mike. Friends of Warren's rifers at the national matches at Camp Perry will be interested to learn that MBS will broadcast daily matches beginning Sunday at two o'clock.

For, while neither constitutes any immediate threat to the crown resting on Louis' head, they are two of the classic boxing men among the big fellows since Tommy Loughran turned in his gloves. The fight, postponed from mid-August because of a light shower and a lighter ticket sale, has caught on with the cash customers the last few days. Promoter Mike Jacobs is confident now he'll have $50,000 and about 15,000 of the faithful in the house when they start swinging at 10 p. m. On its original August date, the bout would have been lucky to draw (Turn to Page Twelve)

President Asks Speedy Action On Major Bills

(From Page One)

The excess profits tax bill now is pending before the senate finance committee. The $5,250,000 emergency defense appropriation bill awaits final senate action before going to the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt added that the quicker the three bills go through the quicker the government will step up the national defense program.

Rudely jolted by their temporary failure to block a postponement of the draft, House conscription leaders rallied their surprised forces today to stave off more moves for the modification of the Burke-Wadsworth compulsory military service bill.

The unexpected reversal occurred late yesterday when the House voted, 185 to 155, to defer the inauguration of conscription for 60 days while an effort was made to obtain 400,000 recruits for the army by one-year voluntary enlistments.

Despite the setback, those in the conscription ranks insisted that the Burke-Wadsworth bill was in no danger of eventual defeat and opponents of the measure did not dispute them. Moreover, indications were that conscription leaders might seek to reverse yesterday's vote before the final roll call.

The decision for the defeat was an amendment by Rep. Fish (R-N.Y.)—the first of the many proposed modifications of the bill to be voted on. It would authorize the president to issue a call as soon as possible for 400,000 volunteers between the ages of 18 and 35. The recruits would be inducted into the army or National Guard upon enlistment.

If 400,000 recruits had not been obtained at the end of 60 days, conscription would become operative to raise whatever additional men needed to fill the quota.

New Field Near Philipsburg Is Boon to Fliers

It takes the place of the Bellefonte airport, where several pilots met death when the army flew the airfield in the early 1930's.

Officials of the aeronautics division said the federal government will transfer its radio beam from Bellefonte to Black Moshannon, and install approximately $100,000 in new radio equipment through the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Eight government employees, including radio men and weather observers, will be stationed at the new field, and the state will provide caretakers.

A lighting system has been installed, and a power line is to be built from Philipsburg.

Black Moshannon has two runways, 5,000 feet long and 500 feet wide, with paved surfaces 3,000 feet long and 100 feet wide. The aeronautics division says the field can handle commercial and military planes of any size.

The aeronautics division has invited commercial fliers and sportsmen pilots to fly into Moshannon for the dedication, and also asked transport lines to send planes.

favorably on the Canadian offer for the tanks.

Information on the military supplies discussion came from Mayor La Guardia, but not much of it.

At his press conference, the president took occasion to reply to those who, he said, had claimed that he did not tell the truth about the destroyer deal at several press conferences before the exchange was actually announced.

Mr. Roosevelt said that when all the official documents were disclosed sometime in the indefinite future, they would show that the criticisms were a little premature.

Before the destroyer-naval base trade was announced, the president had advised reporters not to speculate on whether destroyers were involved in the negotiations for bases. He said today that when he made those statements they were literally true.

A reporter inquired when the official documents might be published. Smiling, Mr. Roosevelt replied that he believed the State Department had ruled they would be published in about 10 years.

He was asked in response to further questions along the same line, what the 1940 campaign had to do with national defense.

The president said that no other equipment was involved in the British trade except the guns and other equipment on the destroyers themselves.

demands of the stern-faced Antonescu. The dictator almost immediately took the oath of office under King Mihai.

Summoned back to the throne which he had relinquished as a lad of eight to his father ten years ago, Mihai received a promise of fidelity from Gen. Antonescu.

As this ceremony was concluded, the premier shook hands with the young king, saying grimly: "Sire, a prayer to God to help your majesty and me."

Announcement of the abdication came after Gen. Antonescu had spent many hours closeted with Carol attempting to persuade him to turn back his throne to his son.

Prince Mihai took the oath with a firm voice in front of a microphone at 7:30 a. m. The abdication had been at 6 a. m.

He asked, in response to further questions along the same line, what the 1940 campaign had to do with national defense.

The president said that no other equipment was involved in the British trade except the guns and other equipment on the destroyers themselves.

Announcement of the abdication came many hours cloistered with Carol attempting to persuade him to turn back his throne to his son. Prince Mihai took the oath with a firm voice in front of a microphone at 7:30 a. m. The abdication had been at 6 a. m.

favorably on the Canadian offer for the tanks.

Information on the military supplies discussion came from Mayor La Guardia, but not much of it.

At his press conference, the president took occasion to reply to those who, he said, had claimed that he did not tell the truth about the destroyer deal at several press conferences before the exchange was actually announced.

Mr. Roosevelt said that when all the official documents were dispatched sometime in the indefinite future, they would show that the criticisms were a little premature.

Before the destroyer-naval base trade was announced, the president had advised reporters not to speculate on whether destroyers were involved in the negotiations for bases. He said today that when he made those statements they were literally true.

A reporter inquired when the official documents might be published. Smiling, Mr. Roosevelt replied that he believed the State Department had ruled they would be published in about 10 years. He asked, in response to further questions along the same line, what the 1940 campaign had to do with national defense.

COLUMBUS HIGH OPEN CLASSES, NAME TEACHERS

Teacher assignments in Columbus township for the 1940-41 term were announced yesterday, with the opening of the high school classes planned there next Monday, although the grade schools will not open until October 7, due to erection of a new consolidated school adjoining the Dean school at Columbus.

No change has been made in the high school faculty, which includes Milton Bonney, principal, Miss Mary Waite and Miss Elizabeth Cuthbert.

Elementary grades will be taught by Florence Damon, Florence Colegrove, Amy Orr, Zella Carroll, Mrs. Dorothy Booser and Mrs. Blanche Bunnell. Four other township teachers, who will not be needed in the consolidation of schools at Columbus, have or will be placed elsewhere. They are Mrs. Edith Lawson, who has taught at Sample Flats, who will teach in Vernon township, near Meadville, and Natalie Dodd, who taught at the Webster school, who has taken a position at Elgin. Mrs. Maryanna Christie, who taught at Center school, is expected to be placed soon.

Work is moving ahead rapidly on the new frame school, which will house the grades in the merger of the township schools. It is expected that the building will be completed early next month to permit opening the grades October 7.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, Sept. 6.—One reason the All-Stars looked so good against the Giants is that last week they scrimmaged four times against another pro team—the Long Island Indians. And the Indians scored exactly the same number of points against the collegers as the Giants. . . . Joe Louis is due from Detroit today to look over Conn and Pastor. Homer Norton of Texas A. and M. names Jim Thorpe, Red Grange, Bronko Nagurski and John Kimbrough as his all-time backfield, picked from among players he has seen. . . . A Minnesota paper reports Art (The Great) Shires is washing dishes in a Texas restaurant.

"Red" Martin has been a regular infelder on the Kansas State Prison team for 13 years and in all that time has never hit under 400. Right now he is seeking that apple at a 491 gait against the best semi-pro clubs in Kansas City and surrounding territory.

On his way back from the women's amateur tourney at Pebble Beach, Cal., Joe Dey, secretary of the U. S. G. A., will visit Fort Worth and help 'em get lined up for next year's National Open. . . .

No one seems to know why, but the betting odds no' only have remained in Conn's favor, but actually have gone up a point or two in the last 24 hours. Around the sidewalk betting commissioners' stands on 49th street, you could get as high as 5 to 9 or 1-2 that the Pittsburgher does that thing to Bobby, despite the fact that Pastor went 20 rounds with Louis in two stages before the roof fell on him in the 11th round in Detroit last fall.
